DDA Waives Management Fee on World's only Bitcoin ETP Based on Macroeconomic Factors until at least 30 September 2025

DDA ETP AG ("DDA" or the "Company"), one of Europe's leading digital asset investment firms, today announced a waiver of the management fee for its flagship smart beta DDA Bitcoin Macro ETP (ticker: BMAC; ISIN: DE000A3G9SE0) from 2.00% to 0% until at least 30 September 2025. This strategic move, effective from 1 March 2025, reinforces BMAC's position as Europe's only Bitcoin exchange-traded product (ETP) adjusting its exposure based on macroeconomic factors.

The fee waiver demonstrates DDA's commitment to providing investors with seamless access to outstanding digital asset strategies while maintaining the highest standards of product innovation. This initiative follows BMAC's milestone of being Europe's only Bitcoin ETP providing a systematic exposure between Bitcoin & USDC based on macroeconomic factors, listed on Deutsche Börse Xetra and Euronext Paris.

Romain Bensoussan, Head of Sales at DDA, commented on the announcement: "We are witnessing an acceleration in Bitcoin's adoption among both private and professional investors. We believe that the DDA Bitcoin Macro ETP has the potential to become a benchmark for Bitcoin investments, offering a smarter exposure than traditional Bitcoin ETPs currently available in the market"

Dominik Poiger, Head of Product Management at DDA added: "The DDA Bitcoin Macro ETP is a truly unique product that allows investors to gain dynamic exposure to the price of bitcoin while trying to reduce drawdowns. We strongly believe that BMAC is a superior product that should be made available to investors as easily as possible. The fee waiver emphasizes our commitment to put the investor first."

About DDA
